Palazzo Lanza
Tomasi

BUTERA 28

Palermo, Italy

Lovers of The Leopard will have heard of Palazzo Lanza Tomasi, the last home of author Prince Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa. On Via Butera, overlooking the Tyrrhenian Sea, the palazzo occupies a tranquil spot in Palermo's historic Arab Kalsa quarter. The current owners are Gioacchino and Nicoletta Lanza Tomasi, Duke and Duchess of Palma, who run a B&B within this historic landmark. It's an enchanting series of neverending joys, especially the Sicilian cooking experiences led by Nicoletta, who guides guests through colourful food markets, after which she serves up such delights as her famous almond milk Biancomangiare topped with jasmine flowers. Lucky visitors might even get a glimpse of the original handwritten manuscript of The Leopard. Double, from £215 (butera28.it).
